

The Indiana Law for home privacy from telemarketers is a wonderful thing and should not be altered. We used to receive calls at all times of the day and night and now when the phone rings, I know it is probably someone I want to talk to. If I wanted to find information on products, I would call them.....karen donner